Indy C

The Indy C label, developed by sisters in law Cindy and Lucy Tucker, was launched in February this year with an extensive winter collection. Since then it has gone from strength to strength from a local base to a growing national following. Each season sees a diverse, cutting-edge range that offers clients unique and affordable pieces that get noticed.

A plethora of designers gathered in Melbourne last week for Australasia's fastest-growing independent shoe fair and the newly created Leather, Bags and Accessories Fair.

An unmissable fair for buyers and retailers, thousands of labels went on display, showcasing the latest trends, designs and innovations. Here Savvy takes a look at the best footwear on offer.

Nat-Sui

The success of Nat-Sui, according to designer and former international model Natalie Mainwaring, is down to the exquisite design. "Nat-Sui designs, while still ensuring seasons depict a theme, mean shoes so stylish they can transcend any season. For a pair of shoes to complete any outfit, in any season, they must have the superb design to cater for any outfit. Nat-Sui's uniqueness lays in that it does just that."

Rosie Roo

Rosie Roo wellies are designed for women from Generation Y and beyond who are looking for something new. Designer Jacqui Wellbank says her fashion-conscious daughters were the inspiration for Rosie Roo. These unique wellies can already be seen in Sydney rush hour, wandering the café-filled side streets of Melbourne, and on Gold Coast boardwalks. Rosie Roo proves that gumboots are no longer a rainy day necessity — they are an every day fashion accessory.
